A Theological Moment With Fr. Jim

(Luke 24:13-35)

All of us know the stages of grief.

- Disbelief: "I can't believe this is happening to me!" At this stage, the pain is so unbearable that we might be numb for a while experiencing the loss.
- Anger: "Life is not fair or just!" The anger might be at God (there is a whole book called "Lamentations"). The anger might be at a counselor, therapist or family member who was not even the cause of the loss.
- Bargaining: "If you can only give me a break from the pain...,"If you can only help me make it to my daughter's graduation..."; "If you can only help me make it to my son's wedding..." "I will be a better person if I get a break from the suffering from the loss."
- Depression: "I can't find meaning in life since I lost my job/my girlfriend, child/spouse."
- Acceptance: "The pain will always be there, but I can now move on in my life to something ndw. There are new ventures and adventures!"

I love the Road to Emmaus story because it is about good grief work. The Risen Lord walks among Cleopas and his wife and facilitates the telling about the tragic loss of their friend, Jesus. Jesus allows them to share their hopes and dreams now dashed against rocks. The Christ enters into their pain and suffering. Grief is a journey. As they continue to walk together, you can see the Lord work through the stages. (I hate the term "Get over it." No one "gets over" their loss, but they work through it.

The "breaking of the bread" in their case and every Sunday is a sign that He is always with us. We bring our losses to mass and we imagine the losses on the plate of bread and in the cup of wine. Yes! That is part of offertory, too. Place our disappointments there as they did at Emmaus.

We talk about the "real presence." It is mystery, multi-dimensional, unfathomable and multi-faceted. But, one way that the presence of the Risen Lord is among us is when we do the work of grief.

Who has walked "The Road to Emmaus" with you? When did you walk that road with another? Dare we enter in and experience the Real Presents of Christ.

CEASA: Covered Dish Discussion: All members of the parish of Our Lady of Peace are cordially invited to take part in a "covered dish discussion" on April 26, 2023 at 6:00 pm at the church. We will enjoy a good meal followed by a discussion on the effect the sexual abuse crisis is having on the Catholic Church's Synod on Synodality. In a recent article in the National Catholic Reporter, author Tom Roberts wrote "Members of the hierarchy appear not to realize the depth to which the effects of the [sexual abuse] scandal have seeped into every level of the institution. If they did, they would be acting far differently." All are welcome to join in. It might be helpful to read Roberts' article which can be found at: https://www.ncronline.org/opinion/guest-voices/hierarchys-sacramental-betrayal-abuse-scandal-obstructs-synodality
